

DOCTORAL STUDIES ORGANISATION

SCIENTIFIC PUBLICATIONS. RULES, METHODS AND REQUIREMENTS FOR WRITING THE SCIENTIFIC ARTICLE

Dr. Peter Jönsson
Research coordinator
Malmö University

THE TWO PUBLICATION TRADITIONS

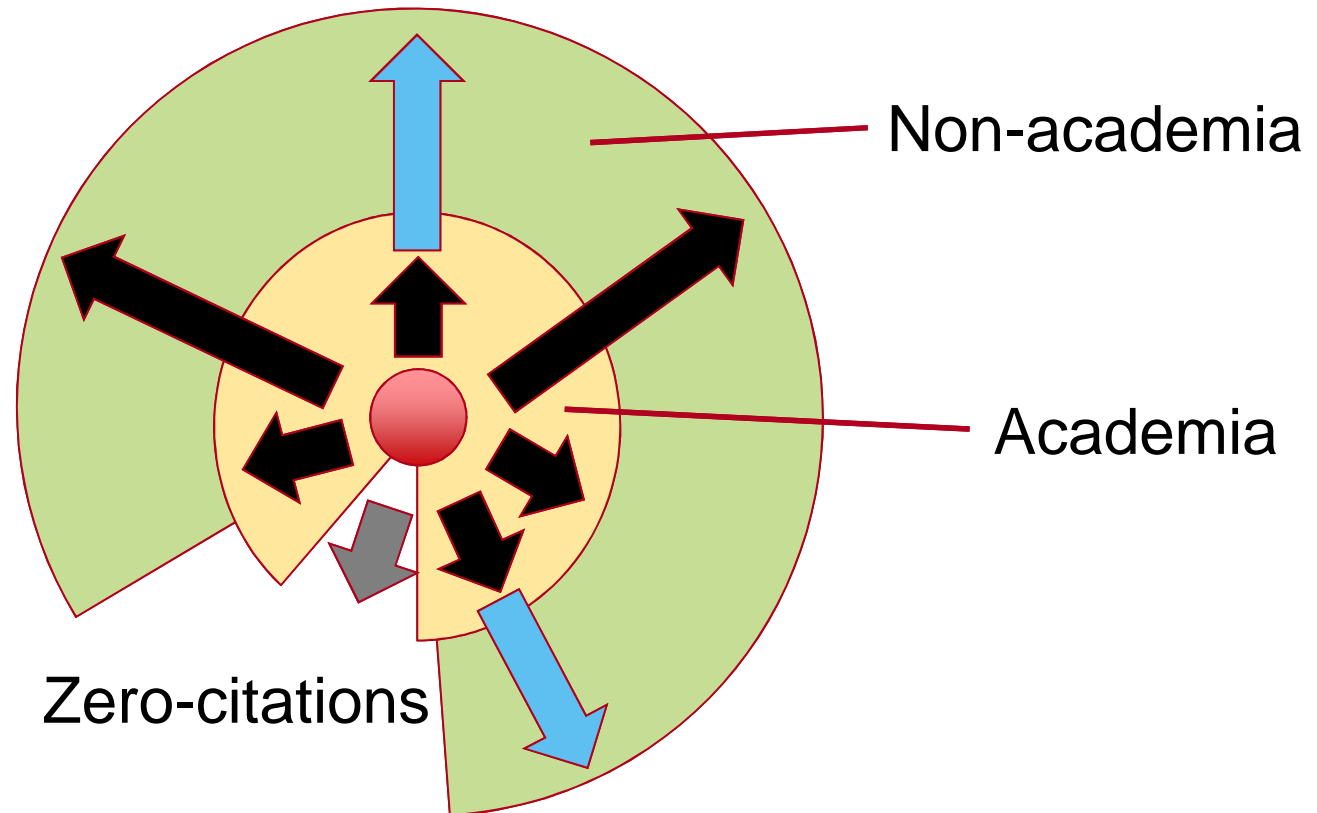

Monograph

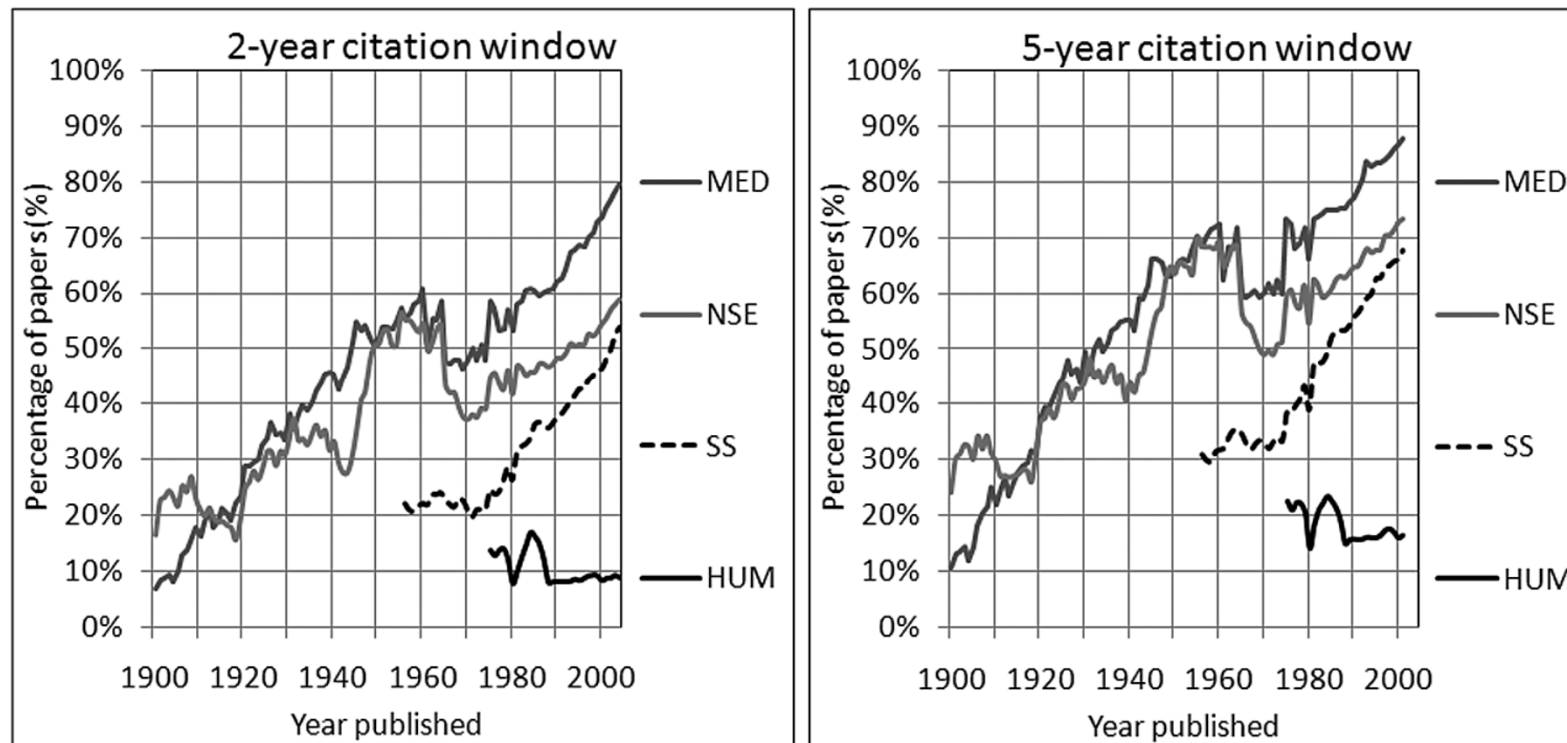

Compilation thesis

PRINCIPLES OF PUBLICATION

- Friction
- Reach

ARTICLE CITATIONS IN DIFFERENT GENRES

THESIS

	Monograph	Compilation of articles
+	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Coherence between its parts• Modification possible until publication• Clear responsibility	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Multiple peer-review• Successive international outreach• Network
-	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Peer-review has to be carefully dealt with• Reach• Post-production may be necessary	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Harder to fit a congruent line of argument• Article fixated in the thesis• Division of responsibility not always evident• “Salamisation”

WRITING A THESIS ARTICLE

Rules

- Each doctoral programme defines what a thesis by compilation of articles means in terms of:
 - Is there a minimum number of articles required?
 - Details of the introductory chapter
 - Authorship; doctoral candidate first name
 - Minimum number of published articles
 - Status of articles in press, submitted manuscripts and manuscripts

In parity with requirements elsewhere

WRITING A THESIS ARTICLE

Preparations

- Carefully and informed selection of publication strategy for the thesis
 - highly regarded journals for the subject in question
 - journals present in the most common publication data bases
- Agreement of preliminary article production in the contract between doctoral candidate and the HEI
 - authorship
- Information on the peer-review process

WRITING A THESIS ARTICLE

Procedure

- The responsibility of text production is gradually handed on to the doctoral candidate from the supervisor
- Manuscript seminars, conferences

Support

- Academic writing; knowledge transfer
 - Informal, from the supervisor(s)
 - Formal, by course work or work-shops
- Language editing support